

A Competition to promote Harmony throughout Europe and the Countries of the World

CONCOURS CICERO
CICERO COMPETITION
CONCURSO CICERO
CONCORSO CICERO

The name CICERO is an acronym in Latin, as you can see above.

CICERO is enjoyed by students of Classics from Edinburgh through Europe to Tunis; from Australia to the Caribbean!

This innovative competition is organised by teachers of Classical subjects around the world for their 6th form students, illustrating that a study of our Classical heritage provides a worthwhile and valid reason for young people to interact with each other across their national boundaries.

During the week beginning Saturday 26th March 2011 students in different countries are taking part in the 5th annual CICERO competition with live video-conferencing when possible, or by an exchange of videos and photos.

INTERNATIONAL PATRONS

Federico Mayor Zaragoza,
Director-General, UNESCO
1987 – 1999

Federico Mayor Prize 2011
for the winning school
worldwide

A Ray of Hope UNESCO

Boris Johnson says
"VOTE FOR LATIN!"

The Mayor of London has sent a video message for the UK page of the website and also a signed book as a prize.

Best-selling novelist Lindsey Davis
(a former President of the Classical Association) has supported CICERO from the beginning and has again sent signed books for 3 lucky winners!

Professors Peter Wiseman,
Edith Hall and Mary Beard have sent signed copies of books.

CICERO has no independent funding and we are extremely grateful to our generous sponsors - without them there would be NO PRIZES!

Please look at the back page for details of financial sponsors.
